

So You Think You Want to Be a Lawyer?

CHICAGO-KENT COLLEGE OF LAW
565 WEST ADAMS STREET
CHICAGO, IL 60661

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27
9:30AM—1:00PM

&

SATURDAY, MARCH 5
9:30AM—3:30PM

Reserve your seat today,
space is limited.

Contact Information:

Marsha Ross-Jackson, Esq.
Assistant Dean,
Diversity and Inclusion
312.906.5346

OR

Phillip M. Rutherford, Esq.
Associate Director,
Admissions
312.906.5024

Chicago-Kent College of Law, in partnership with the Law School Admission Council's (LSAC) DiscoverLaw.org Outreach Initiative, is hosting the "So You Think You Want to Be a Lawyer" Project in Spring 2016 for interested high school students. This exciting two-part series is open to new and returning participants and will be held on Saturday, February 27, and Saturday, March 5. Both events are free. Participants will discuss strategies they can use to prepare for law school while in high school and in college; learn what it means to be a law student; speak with practicing attorneys about different legal specialties; and experience "a day in court" by participating in a mock trial competition. All of the programs will be interactive, allowing participants to engage in hands on activities and meet current law students and attorneys.

For more information or to RSVP visit:
www.kentlaw.iit.edu/diversity/discoverlaw